Dr. Pam Foti played a pivotal role in strengthening the connection between the academic and practitioner segments of our profession. Since 1988, she has been a leading figure in the Parks and Recreation program at Northern Arizona University, educating undergraduates pursuing careers in the profession. Throughout more than three decades of service, Dr. Foti dedicated herself to shaping and inspiring future leaders, leaving a lasting impact on her students and colleagues. As a staple of the Northern Arizona Parks and Recreation community, her influence continues to resonate through the many individuals she taught and research she contributed, ensuring her legacy endures well beyond her retirement.
